

Bilan 2023 des permis de bâtir au Québec

Faits saillants

Province

- Sous l'effet de la hausse des taux hypothécaires qui s'est poursuivie l'an dernier, la valeur des permis octroyés par l'ensemble des municipalités de la province pour de nouvelles constructions a reculé de 17 % en 2023, pour atteindre 9,85 milliards de dollars. Il s'agit d'une deuxième diminution consécutive, la valeur des permis ayant diminué de 11 % en 2022, après avoir atteint la somme record de 13,3 milliards de dollars en 2021.
- Ces permis autorisaient la construction de tout près de 39 275 nouveaux logements, une diminution de 21 % comparativement à 2022.
- Ce sont les appartements qui ont connu la baisse la moins prononcée, tant en valeur qu'en nombre de logements. Les permis autorisaient la construction de 29 382 appartements (-14 %) pour une valeur totale de tout près de 6 milliards de dollars (-2 %). Cela correspond à une valeur moyenne par logement d'un peu plus de 201 000 dollars, soit près de 15 % de plus qu'en 2022.
- La valeur des permis pour de nouvelles maisons unifamiliales s'est fortement repliée, de 30 %, à 3,5 milliards de dollars. Ceux-ci autorisaient la construction de 8 135 nouvelles maisons (-34 %) d'une valeur moyenne de 426 600 dollars.
- Finalement, les permis de construction pour des maisons jumelées et en rangée ont affiché le repli le plus prononcé, soit de 47 % en valeur (461 millions de dollars) et de 48 % en nombre d'unités (1 759 habitations).

Régions administratives

- Seulement deux régions administratives ont déjoué la tendance provinciale et enregistré une hausse de la valeur des permis de construction en 2023 : le Saguenay–Lac–Saint–Jean (234 283 millions de dollars) et l'Outaouais (719 511 millions de dollars), avec des augmentations respectives de 5 % et 10 %. Dans cette dernière région, le nombre de logements autorisés a bondi de 21 %, grâce à une forte croissance des intentions de construction d'appartements (+41 %).
- La Mauricie et les Laurentides, qui n'accusent toutes les deux que des baisses de 5 % de la valeur des permis pour de nouvelles constructions, se tirent également bien d'affaire. Les Laurentides arrivent d'ailleurs au deuxième rang en ce qui a trait à la valeur totale des permis, avec 1,42 milliard de dollars, derrière la Montérégie avec 1,76 milliard de dollars.
- Dans la région de Montréal, bien que le repli de la valeur des permis n'ait été que de 9 %, on note une chute marquée de 35 % du nombre de logements autorisés. Entre autres, seulement 61 permis pour la construction de maisons unifamiliales (-41 %) ont été octroyés. La valeur moyenne de ceux-ci s'élevait à un peu plus de 554 000 dollars. Étonnamment, Montréal est devancée à ce chapitre par les Laurentides (579 000 dollars) et Laval (724 000 dollars).
- Toutes les autres régions administratives ont enregistré des baisses marquées de la valeur des permis, les plus fortes diminutions ayant eu lieu en Abitibi-Témiscamingue (-41 %), à Laval (-41 %) et dans le Bas-Saint-Laurent (-47 %).
- Si la région du Bas-Saint-Laurent a accusé la diminution la plus importante de la valeur des permis, c'est principalement en raison d'une chute de 70 % de la valeur des permis visant la construction d'appartements. En nombre de logements, il s'agit d'une baisse de 50 % comparativement à 2022, le plongeon le plus marqué de toute la province à ce chapitre.

Notes explicatives

L'Enquête mensuelle sur les permis de bâtir vise à recueillir des données sur le nombre et la valeur des permis délivrés par les municipalités canadiennes afin d'obtenir de l'information sur les intentions de construction.

Les résultats de l'Enquête servent de cadre de référence à la Société canadienne d'hypothèques et de logement (SCHL) pour effectuer le relevé mensuel du nombre de logements mis en chantier.

Le présent bulletin traite spécifiquement des données sur les permis de nouvelles constructions, c'est-à-dire les permis portant sur la construction de tout nouveau bâtiment résidentiel. Les données sur les permis pour les travaux de rénovation sont traitées séparément dans un autre de nos bulletins.

IMPORTANT : Les données présentées dans ce rapport sont préliminaires.

Statistique Canada effectuera une révision en mai ou en juin.
